

Dear Parent or Guardian:

Charlotte County Public Schools would like to offer your child access to our electronic communications system. Your child will be able to communicate with other schools, colleges, organizations, and individuals around the world, through the Internet and other electronic information systems.

Part of the division's responsibility in preparing students for the 21st century is to provide them access to the tools they will be using as adults. The global information network will likely be one of those tools. Through the division's electronic information system, your child will have access to hundreds of databases, libraries, and computer services from all over the world. We accept the responsibility for teaching your child about his/her role as a "network citizen" and the code of ethics involved with this new "global community".

As educators, one of our greatest priorities is to protect the students. In terms of online safety and the ever-changing nature of the Internet, our instructors will stay well informed of the latest computer threats and continue to integrate Internet safety into the curriculum throughout the school year.

Student responsibility comes with this educational opportunity. It is important that you and your child read the enclosed division policy, guidelines and agreement form and discuss these requirements together. Please note that the Internet is an association of diverse communication and information networks. It is possible that your child may come across material of adult content, some of which you might find objectionable. (The division takes a no tolerance approach to accessing such material and will hold students responsible for their actions.) Precautions will be taken to prevent unauthorized access, but it is not possible to prevent such access completely.

Attached to this letter are the following documents:

- The division's Internet Policy and Acceptable Use regulations
- An agreement for your child to read and sign stating his/her agreement to follow division policies regarding the Internet. This agreement requires your signature and will be kept on file at the school in your child's permanent folder, to remain in effect until otherwise stated.

Please review these materials carefully with your child before signing the required agreement form.

Sincerely,
Nancy Hardie Leonard
Division Superintendent

ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

Electronic communication systems include the Internet, Intranet, e-mail, and any other electronic means of communicating information and ideas. The Internet is an “electronic highway” connecting millions of computers all over the world and millions of individual users. Access to the Internet will enable users to explore thousands of libraries, databases, and bulletin boards while exchanging messages with users throughout the globe. In addition, the system will be used to increase school and District communication, enhance productivity, and assist employees in upgrading their skills through greater exchange of information with their peers. The system will also assist the schools in sharing information with the local community, including parents, social service agencies, government agencies, and businesses. Intranet refers to the ability to communicate within the confines of the division’s local area network while E-mail allows users to send and receive individual messages through a computer system.

The Charlotte County School Board acknowledges that it is impossible to predict with certainty what information students might locate on the Internet. The electronic information available to students does not imply endorsement by the division of the content, nor does the division make any guarantee as to the accuracy of the information received on the Internet.

The division shall make every effort to see that this educational resource is used responsibly by students and staff. Administrators, teachers and staff have a professional responsibility to work together to help students develop the intellectual skills needed to discriminate among information sources, to identify information appropriate to their age and developmental levels, and to evaluate and use information to meet their educational goals. In addition, staff members have the responsibility to use resources in an educationally appropriate manner.

The Superintendent or designee shall develop procedures for student exploration and use of electronic information resources. Such procedures shall address issues of privacy, ethical use of information, personal safety, illegal and/or unauthorized use of the Internet, and other conditions of usage.

Use of the Internet demands personal responsibility and an understanding of acceptable use procedures. Use of the Internet is a privilege, not a right. General rules for behavior and communications apply when using the Internet. Failure to follow the acceptable use procedures will result in the loss of the privilege to use this educational tool and, if applicable, disciplinary measures.

ADOPTED: July 1, 1997.

REVISED: May 29, 2007.

Legal Refs: The Communications Decency Act of 1995, 47 U.S.C. 201 et seq.

ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS GUIDELINES

Access to electronic communications systems will enable users to explore thousands of libraries, databases, and bulletin boards while exchanging messages with Internet users throughout the world. Families should be warned that some material accessible via the Internet may contain items that are illegal, defamatory, inaccurate or potentially offensive to some people. While the school system's intent is to make Internet access available to further educational goals and objectives, users may find ways to access other materials as well. It is the system's belief that the benefits to users from access to the Internet, in the form of information resources and opportunities for collaboration, exceed any disadvantages. Ultimately, parents and guardians of minors are responsible for insuring that their children follow the standards and guidelines established by the School Board when using media and information services.

Students and staff are responsible for good behavior on school computer networks just as they are whenever present on school property. Communications on the network are often public in nature. Therefore, general school rules for behavior and communications apply. The network is provided for the limited educational purpose of allowing users to conduct research and communicate with others. Educational purpose is defined as use of the system for classroom activities, professional or career development and limited high-quality self-discovery activities. Access to network services is given to students who agree to act in a considerate and responsible manner and, along with their parent/guardian, have signed the Acceptable Use Agreement. Employee use should reflect the educational purpose of the network. By signing the attached acceptable use agreement, employees agree to follow the stated guidelines.

Access is a privilege (not a right) and entails responsibility. Individual users of the division computer networks are responsible for their behavior and communications over those networks. It is expected that users will comply with division standards and will honor the agreements they have signed. Violations will result in disciplinary action. Network storage areas may be treated like school lockers. Network administrators may review files and communications to maintain system integrity and insure that students and staff are using the system responsibly. Users should not expect that files stored on division servers will always be private. Users should be advised that all activity on the network can be tracked. Within reason, freedom of speech and access to information will be honored.

The items listed above should not be considered comprehensive. Other inappropriate actions not listed may also be considered unacceptable use of electronic communications. Violators may also be subject to local, state, federal, and international law.
